

SOCIAL AND OTHER INTERESTS OF WOMEN

Mary Schenck Woolman, B. S., of Boston, Mass., is to be presented by the department of civics and philanthropy of the Progress club at their next general meeting on Nov. 4. One week before she will address the State Teachers' Federation at Indianapolis. At present she is chairman of the committee on education of the Massachusetts federation of Women's club and was formerly professor of domestic art at the Teacher's College of Columbia university. She was the first director of the Manhattan Trade School for girls, and chairman of the women's committee of the National Society for Promotion of Industrial Education. She will lecture before the Progress club on the subject of "Economics of Clothing," which includes "Wise Purchasing" and "Sympathetic Appreciation of Manufacturers' and Retailers' Difficulties in Meeting the Demands for Effective but Inexpensive Materials." The address will be of especial interest to those concerned with educational and industrial problems of girls and women in American cities. Miss Schenck is at present an investigator and lecturer.

As a courtesy to her house guest, Mrs. Thomas H. Walsh of Denver, Colo., Mrs. S. P. Stultz, 904 E. Jefferson Blvd., pleasantly entertained with a 1 o'clock luncheon Monday afternoon at her home. The living room was prettily decorated with roses and potted plants while the dining room was appointed in yellow and white. Chrysanthemums formed the centerpiece for the luncheon table at which places were set for 14 guests. Those who participated in the delightful affair were Mrs. Walsh, the honor guest; Mrs. Charles Naughton of Fort Wayne; Mrs. E. J. Carroll of Lansing, Mich.; Miss Marjorie Smith of Freeport, L. I.; Miss Edna Place, Miss Mary Place, Miss Inez Haeske, Miss Mary Casey, Mrs. Lee Brackley, Mrs. George Zink, Mrs. Jesse Pavey, Miss Valeria BonDurant, and Mrs. Delos Coen. Following the luncheon the guests were entertained with several musical selections by Misses BonDurant and Haeske.

Several friends of Henry Thornton, 325 N. Notre Dame av., pleasantly surprised him at his home Saturday evening in celebration of his birthday anniversary. The evening was spent at 509 and near the close a buffet luncheon was served to the 12 guests present.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Hildebrand, 625 Riverside drive, entertained with a dinner Sunday noon, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Burton Oliver of Kalamazoo, who were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. Smith, 414 E. Bronson st. Covers were laid for 10.

The marriage of Miss Margaret Sheekey, 601 S. Main st., to John B. Anderson of Chicago, will take place Wednesday morning at 8:30 o'clock in St. Patrick's church, the Very Rev. Andrew Morrissey of Notre Dame officiating.

Miss Eva Hotzenpiller, 216 S. Scott st., was hostess at a dinner and miscellaneous shower given Sunday evening in honor of Miss Olga Marie Grotte whose marriage to Howard Hagedorn will be celebrated soon. Pink and white were the color motif used in the decorations throughout the house, the living room containing profusions of pink and white roses and white chrysanthemums. Pink shades were used on the chandeliers. Dinner was served at 8:30 to 10 guests. Centering the table was a pink shaded lamp and lying on the table around this was a wreath of smilax and tiny pink and white rosebuds. Roses and small cupid were used as favors. Accepting for the guest of honor, Miss Grotte, the roses were pink and in the little boxes attached to each cupid were pink and white candles. Miss Grotte's place was marked with a white rose, however, and a cupid was of Dresden china, the box containing a gold wedding ring. Following the dinner, the evening was spent informally.

IN MILADY'S BOUDOIR

BY GWEN SEARS.

MILADY'S NEGLIGEE.

So close is the association of lacy negligee and boudoir fittings that I feel it would be an opportune time to mention the necessity of owning one for the "rainy day" or possibly the one day of illness or indisposition.

Every woman should have a dainty, comfortable negligee of some sort laid away in case of illness. The gown that is in constant use, is rarely presentable when sickness comes, and there is nothing more depressing to a sick person than the knowledge that she looks untidy.

A woman may claim that she is so seldom ill that it scarcely seems any more necessary to keep such garments around than to follow the example of her grandmothers and have grave clothes packed away in camphor; but when sickness does come it is usually a sudden thing and it may then be neither convenient nor possible from a pecuniary standpoint to purchase new garments in such an emergency.

It is all very well to use quilts and gowns while the patient is really ill, as there is danger of spilling medicine on bedroom finery, but when there is a change for the better there is nothing like a fresh little sacque or a becoming wrapper to have a moral effect on the patient and hasten recovery.

If the occasion does not arise when the negligee is needed for illness it is yet always ready for packing to take on a trip away from home. One should never travel without a negligee of some kind for use in case of illness of when the night is chilly and extra covering is needed.

What the French Maid Told Marjorie

BY JANE LOWELL.

THE LINEN CLOSET.

"It seems to be the proper thing to have covers for your mattress," remarked Marjorie. "I never thought of it before but I suppose they do keep lots of dirt and dust out of the mattress."

"No linen closet is complete without including mattress covers," replied Marie. "They can be bought at a nominal cost, and are far more hygienic and serviceable than ones of felt or unbleached cotton which used to protect the ticking from dust and dirt. These always come cheaper when bought by the piece and then they can be cut to the required size and hemmed. It is labor lost to hem dish or dust cloths by hand."

"Table linen always looks better when hemmed by hand, but the machine should do duty in the case of dish towels. When possible always have two sets of blankets—warm, neezy ones for winter and thinner ones for summer. It is easier to handle two single blankets than one double one, so the housewife herself can remedy this by cutting a double blanket in half and binding the edges with ribbon, or galloon."

"As for mending linens, it is an art itself. If the thin places in table cloths and napkins and bed linens are mended before they fall into holes they may last many months longer and the darns will not show if fine cotton and fine stitches are used."

"But the ever conscientious housekeeper should be warned against spending both time and eyesight upon linen which is beyond doing much more service. One more wear does not compensate for so much labor. A stitch in time has all the force and truth of the old adage, but there is the other extreme of expending too much time and energy upon a fruitless job."
